Commercial events can range from small, intimate gatherings to large, extravagant affairs, depending on the goals and budget of the organizing company.

Party

A party is a social gathering where people come together to celebrate, have fun, and socialize. This can include a wide range of events, from casual get-togethers among friends to formal galas and balls. Parties may have a specific theme or purpose, such as a birthday celebration or holiday party. They can also vary in size and location, from small house parties to large events held at venues such as restaurants, clubs, or event spaces.

Festival

A festival is an event that is usually centered around a specific theme or cultural tradition. It often includes a series of performances, exhibitions, and activities that celebrate this theme or tradition. Festivals can be religious, cultural, or seasonal in nature and are often held in public spaces such as parks or town squares. They can also attract large audiences and may include food, music, and entertainment for attendees to enjoy.

These events often take place in natural surroundings, such as parks, forests, or beaches, and can be a great way to connect with nature and stay active. Weddings, on the other hand, are formal ceremonies that bring together two people in marriage.
